It was not generally thought that the jury would be able to make a report so promptly, and when it retired to consider the evidence Coroner Traeger announced that he did not expect a verdict before tomorrow morning. There were over 750,000 words of testimony, and each juror would, according to the law, be compelled to sign his name to the testimony of each witness, which meant that each man would be compelled to write his name 572 times. This work alone, the coroner estimated, would consume five hours. There was, therefore, considerable surprise when the jury announced shortly before 11 o'clock that it had reached a verdict and was ready to report. WARRANTS ISSUED.

It was at once decided by the coroner that all men who should be held by the verdict to the grand jury, should be taken into custody for the night. He therefore at once prepared warrants for their arrest and called upon the police depart- SIZE OF THE STRUCTURE ment for officers to serve them. "I do not expect that some of these men who are likely to be held will try to escape." said the coroner, "but some of them who have not large property interests might take it into their heads to do so. INDIVIDUAL CHARGES. Will J. Davis was held responsible as president and general manager. He was the laws, and was bound to see that his employes were properly instructed as to their duties in case of fire.

Overheated Furnaces Kept Chicago Laddies Busy.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 .- During the twentyfour hours ending at 10 o'clock the fire department of this city was called upon to fight sixty-three separate and distinct fires. The majority of them resulted from overheated furnaces. The largest fire of the day was that which completely destroyed the dry-goods store of Johnson Bros., 1630-1650 Milwaukec avenue, entalling a loss of

Numbers of its citizens predict an arrest shortly, while the most conservative say it will take time for the dotectives to secure evidence enough to justify an arrest in connection with the murder of Sarah Schafer. The morning papers, which made first mention of Joseph Heitger, the Indiana University athlete, in connection with the case, threw the little city into a puzzled state that bordered on a panic. Nothing was talked about on the streets and in the homes but the episode in Miss Schafer's room, when Heltger, according to her letters, attempted to force his attentions upon her. The community was shocked. So highly is the young man's family connected that few even ventured an opinion. It became known about the little city that Heitger intended to return from Bloomington on the Monon train due at 4:35 o'clock this afternoon. In spite of the blinding snow a small and curious crowd waited at the station. The train was an hour late, but still they waited. He failed, however, to step off the car as the train slowed up at the station. In the afternoon Heitger was in communication with his father and he decided to remain a few days longer in Bloomington.
